SUMMARY

Frontend developer with 3+ years of experience building accessible, responsive, and production-grade web and mobile applications using React, Next.js, and TypeScript. I started my career as a UI/UX designer, which continues to influence my engineering approach, focusing on visual clarity, interaction consistency, and performance. I've collaborated with product and design teams to ship interfaces used in healthcare, education, and logistics. Passionate about building fast, user-focused experiences, and simplifying complex systems through design-driven engineering.
